

Sean Kilpatrick

RealMed

Hello, and welcome to RealMed TV. I'm Sean Kilpatrick, Director of Product Management at RealMed Corporation. I would like to provide an overview of RealClean: Advanced Claims Editing, another great addition to our service solutions suite of products.

RealClean helps practices reduce back-end denials by providing up-front, practice-specific editing of claim transactions. This is particularly beneficial because in today's world of healthcare business operations, practices must continually adapt to ever-changing industry and payer business rules affecting the submission of claims.

RealClean is a comprehensive authoring solution that enables physician practices and healthcare providers to quickly respond to these changing healthcare industry rules. With RealClean, practices now have the ability to customize and maintain their own business rules without the need for highly technical or specialized resources. The practice's unique editing situations are addressed through a set of wizard-like screens, which handle the most complex editing needs in an efficient, user-friendly fashion.

In addition to the authoring tool, RealClean provides access to enhanced CCI, LCD and NCD editing. Historical editing of past claims is also included along with the ability to provide information-only editing for reporting purposes.

RealClean is integrated within a single, standardized workflow that significantly reduces the burden and cost of using multiple vendors. And, it is the only solution that is fully integrated into a claims clearinghouse workflow. For example, claims that trigger an edit within RealClean are returned to RealMed's online edit and error management module, just like all other RealMed and payer-error returns, reducing the need to train billing staff on multiple applications.

As you can imagine, edit customization and features within RealClean go far beyond the standard editing available within the RealMed solution and any other clearinghouse-editing capability available today.

Thank you very much for learning more about RealClean. Please check out additional informational videos in the RealMed TV section of RealMed.com.